

Girl #3 (Age 10)

Curled up tight with your family gazing at the gleaming lights on the tree. Outside falls the blissful snow this is the wonderful feeling you know. Warm as fire is Christmas's way like the bebe Jesus the start of this day.

What is the true spirit of Christmas? This question's answer will differ depending on who you ask, but the meaning will differ little. This is because the meaning of Christmas is what it's about or what it means, the birth of Christ. Although this could change depending on your beliefs. The true spirit of Christmas on the other hand is the attitude that come with its traditions. To me, the true spirit of Christmas is joyful time of giving, gratitude, and getting. (Honestly who doesn't like presents?)

The Christmas season gives me a sense of warmth. I also feel peaceful and ready to serve. One of our family traditions is our service jars. These are jars that we fill with candy every time we do a service. On Christmas Eve my mom divides up the candy and puts it in our stockings. There are letters on the jars. The letters are M,A, and S. These are the last 3 letters in Christmas. This makes Christmas stand for Christs Many Acts of Service. I love the Christmas season and all of its traditions. This season makes me feel peaceful, grateful and loved. This is my spirit of Christmas.
