

Princess #34

Christmas to me is a celebration which includes spending time with my family. This involves decorating our house inside and out with trees, lights and so much more. Christmas is also about giving gifts to those I love and people that are not blessed during the holidays. Giving to those who need it by donating toys for kids is one of the most important parts of what Christmas is to me. Christmas is like candy, where the sweet taste slowly goes away, but you want it to stay forever. For the last and final part about what Christmas means to me is the most important aspect of the Christmas celebration of Jesus' birthday. We can't just celebrate with gifts, we need to celebrate God too.
